In the left column, text flows down first. Readers finish this column before moving to the right one.

The right column holds the rest of the article and ends the page here. Reading order matters.